Protective Security Operations Certification (PSOC)

is designed exclusively for executive protection, corporate security, Federal Government, DoD and law enforcement professionals interested in learning the procedures and principles of providing protective services for high net-worth or 'at risk' individuals in any environment. This constantly evolving and updated (60) sixty-hour certification program includes the most comprehensive and modern curriculum currently taught for low visibility protective security. The PSOC doctrine spans numerous blocks of instruction covering protective operations from A to Z through classroom and practical training periods. Students must meet or exceed certification standards during four evaluation phases measuring individual knowledge, skills and abilities in order to graduate.

September 7 – 11, 2010 Middletown, NY

The PSOC Protection Agent Development course is the only protective security training program in the United States fully certified by a major university for academic credit (UNLV) and the entire PSOC program is GSA certified for Federal Government and DoD personnel (GS-02F-0160V).

The primary goal of PSOC is to professionally educate and train those tasked with different types of protective operations. Students participating in this program will have varying degrees of expertise and experience. Regardless of background or current assignment, students are trained to operate on the same page. Due to this being a restricted enrollment course, prospective students must be prepared for a brief phone interview with a staff member from PFC to discuss work experience and previous training related to security and protective services. Additionally, students will be expected to sign and adhere to a non-disclosure agreement (NDA) upon the first day of class.
